VANDERLIP DEAL ROUSES JAPAN

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Tokio, Dec. 7.—Attacks on the Russians concessions granted Washington D. Vanderlip, representing American capital, occupied much space in local papers today. The Japanese foreign office recently indicated that it would not recognize the concessions.

The leading Tokio daily, Nichi Nichi, today commented editorially in a most pessimistic tone on the Washington negotiations for a new treaty between the United States and Japan.

MOST OF CASES GO OVER TERM

Action to Recover For Death of Herbert Child Heads Supreme Court Day Calendar—Several Cases Settled—Remaining Actions Against West Shore Probably Will Not Be Tried This Term.

The December term of supreme court was convened Monday afternoon at the court house with Justice Nichols presiding. There is a grand and trial jury in attendance. Although there are 194 cases on the calendar the majority of them are not to be tried at this term of court, being put over the term.

All of the grand jury answered to their names and but two, Oliver
C. DuBois of Plattekill and Ephraim Myer of Saugerties, were excused.
Charles C. Upright of Gardiner chosen as foreman of the grand jury.

At the call of the calendar the following cases were announced settled: No. 74, Jacob Rapoport against E. F. MacFadden; 92, Mary Klein against Myer Bahl; 98, Max Hansen against Robert T. Hubbard; 101, Ellen E. Murphy against Kingston
Consolidated Railroad Company; 102,
James M. Murphy against Kingston
Consolidated Railroad Company; 173
Augusta V. D. Horton against Abraham Flax; 180, Samuel Hermance against Abram Kelder and son; 189, Frank Luger against Tristram Coffin.

In 102, Caroline Harwood vs. Lawrence Rafferty, an action for assault which is alleged to have taken place in Franklin county, a motion was made to have the place of trial changed to Franklin county by John W. Eckert on behalf of defendant.
Frank W. Brooks appears for the plaintiff.

The first case placed on the day calendar is the action brought by John F. Herbert, Jr., as administrator against Thomas Callahan as administrator brought to recover for the death of Mr. Herbert's child which died as a result of being run into by the Callahan automobile some time ago on Clinton avenue, near Albany avenue.
Amos Van Eppen appears for the plaintiff. Judge James Jenkins, who appears for Mr. Callahan, stated when the case was moved for trial that he would be ready to proceed with the trial as soon as Mrs. Herbert could be subpoenaed. An effort had been made by him to have her served, he said, but he had been informed that she was out of town and would be absent indefinitely.
Judge Jenkins stated to the court that as a part of the defense was going to be "negligence on the part of the parents." It was necessary to have Mrs. Herbert present. The case, however, was put at the head of the day calendar.

The next case is one of the many insurance cases of Hubert Kelly.
There are nine cases in all brought against as many insurance companies to recover on insurance policies. As Judge Nichols is interested in some of the companies involved, having insurance therein, No. 46, Kelly against the Home Mutual Fire Insurance Company and others, was selected to be tried. It being against a company in which the judge is not interested, only one of the cases is placed on the calendar and that subject to motion of continuance. John R. DeVany appears for Kelly. Mills
& Mills for the defendants.

Other cases on the day calendar are $2 1/2 (100) Nancy B. Sigourney against Kingston Consolidated Railroad Company, an action for personal injuries. 134, Gordon Tire and Rubber Company against M. L. Forsyth and William M. Davis, action for goods sold and delivered. 177, Alexander Charchian against Charles Kietne and another, recovery on note. 140, May McGinnis against Charles H. McGinnis, action for a separation. 164, John F. Gallagher against Joseph Steinlauf, negligence.
165, Herman Blumenfeld against Alex Ebert, et al. action on contract.
Leo F. Jordan against Good Roads
Engineering and Contracting Company, Inc., action to recover money for breach of contract. 175, Samuel Belchinsky against Barnett Glaser.

The several cases against the West Shore railroad which grew out of the collision of a trolley car and a West Shore train at the Broadway crossing, and which are on the calendar, will probably not be tried at this term of court. An application was made some time ago by Amos Van Eppen, attorney for the defendant railroad company to have the place of trial changed from Ulster county to Albany or Rensselaer county. The motion was denied and an appeal has been taken. Mr. Van Eppen asked for a stay until a decision has been handed down. In both the Boyd and Webster cases which so far have been tried a verdict for plaintiff has been given.

The FRANKLIN

30 miles to the gallon of gasoline
12,500 miles to the set of tires
50% slower yearly depreciation (National Average)

THE Franklin has never been sold on anything else but its performance. And because this performance is something that can be put into real figures, it has become a standard of comparison in the automobile field.

The economy stated above is evidence of low operating and up-keep costs, and of long life. The comfort, ease of handling, reliability, and freedom from tire and cooking troubles and worries that these figures typify, are equally definite factors in the satisfaction of owners.

Light weight, flexibility and direct air-cooling are the three Franklin principles which make all these results possible.

The 'Forked Tongues!

All of Rio de Janeiro, that gorgeous home of race beauty and mystic tropical charm, succumbed to the dazzling radiance of Bessie North's personality. She led the city's social whirl—loved, was loved and was happy. Then tragedy came—and plots and intrigue. The whisper market stirred, awoke and out over all its baneful spell. At this point is where the big moments of the picture begin.

D'ANNUNZIO FIRM FOR ANNEXATION

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Milan, Dec. 7.—Gabriele D'Annunzio, "dictator of Fiume," in a conference with the parliamentary delegation from Rome, renewed his demand that Italy annex Fiume harbor and the hinterland, according to advice reaching here today. The treaty of Rapallo, recently negotiated between Italy and Jugo-Slavia, prohibits Italy from carrying out such annexation. The committee from the Italian chamber of deputies has remained at Fiume, hoping for a conciliatory agreement with D'Annunzio.

Gabriele D'Annunzio's "war" against Italy was to have opened last Friday, but the only hostilities reported consisted of some rifle firing against Italian warships which were out of range. In order to prevent the possibility of domestic strife, the government troops blockading Fiume were ordered not to attack D'Annunzio's legionnaires.

GOT WETTING FOR NOTHING

Of Course He Saved the Hat, but Many Would Have Thrown It Back in the Water.

A policeman walking along the side of the canal, seeing a youngster crying, accosted him.

"What's the matter?" he cried.

The youngster pointed to a hat bobbing up and down in the middle of the canal.

"My brother—" he sobbed.

In a flash the courageous constable plunged into the water. He came up, but with the hat only.

"Can't find him," he gasped. "Where was he standing when he fell in?"

"He didn't fall in," the boy blurted out: "he is over there. I was going to tell you he threw my hat into the canal, but you wouldn't let me finish."

BUILT IN STAGE COACH DAYS

Shull Tavern, in Ohio, is a Relic That Surely Should Be Well Worth Preserving.

On the old state road between Pittsburgh and Mansfield, O., stands the old Shull tavern, a relic of the stage coach days. The early ancestors of the present Shull family came originally from the Black forest in Germany. In 1732, because of the wars which agitated Europe at that time, they emigrated to America. From this family came Henry Shull, who moved to Ohio in 1806, and took a section of land on the old state road, where he built the old two-story building which is still known as the Shull tavern. The old home is still in excellent condition.

Henry Shull built his own sawmill to cut the logs for the building, and burned the brick he used. The house contains large rooms, and has a large veranda above and below, which extends the entire length of the house.

One of the most striking features of the house proper is the front door. This door is built of a solid piece of oak, and the outside is paneled in the old colonial fashion. The side windows are also quaint, and the latch, with a heavy lock on the inside, is of a style seldom seen now.

Volcano Upset Calculation.

An unassuming but fruitful incident occurred recently as the volcano of Kilauea, H. I., described as the most continuously active in the world, was being examined by scientists of the Hawaiian Volcano Research association. As the climax of this expedition they had determined to photograph a towering crag of solidified lava that rises, Gibraltarlike, from the surface of a swelling, overcrusted lava lake, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. But at the instant the cameraman was squeezing the bulb, an explosion within the uneasy mass threw into the air, not ten yards from the party, and directly before the lens of the camera, a tumbling mass of white hot lava. Crashing back, and so breaking the surface crust, these erupted fragments roused the entire lake into a "seething, billowing mass of fountains."

India to Conserve Timber.

The timber of India will be operated upon a gigantic system of conservation. None but the large timber will be cut at any time, and the methods of logging that will be selected will insure the least damage to the smaller trees. This is possible in that country, as it has never been possible in America, owing to the title to the timber being vested in the state, so that the operations can be conducted by the state on one national system, which will insure a perpetual source of revenue from the forest wealth.

Insignia for the Deaf.

For the protection and greater ease of deaf persons in Holland, a society devoted to their interests has introduced a distinctive button to be worn by those afflicted, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. A small white disk is fastened by a vertical red stripe, the white ground at the sides bearing the letters "D" and "H." Initials of the words "deaf hearing" in the Dutch language.

Luminous Modern Life.

"I suppose your motto is 'Make hay while the sun shines,'" remarked the summer boarder who tries to be jovial.

"It used to be," answered Farmer Christened. "But lately I have been a little bit careful not to mention sunshine for fear the hired man would make an error in his work."

Not Far Off.

Harold and Harry are twins. One day Harry came into the house while his mother was upstairs.

Thinking it was Harold, she called: "Is that you, Harold?"

"No, mamma," replied Harry. "but I'm the next thing to him."

"How Do You Serve this Perfect Coffee?"

"It is really delicious—that wonderful rich coffee taste, that we have never been able to catch home. What is the secret?"

"It's really no secret at all," replied the hostess. "I buy La Touraine the best coffee. I have been able to find, and I see that it is made right. Care—that's the secret of good coffee."

La Touraine is the best coffee you will be able to find, because it is made by an exacting formula which has been the pride of a great Boston coffee house for nearly a generation.

Although the finest coffees of their kind go into La Touraine, we could not get the special La Touraine flavor unless these coffees were blended and roasted in rigid obedience to the formula. Each of these high-grade coffees contributes its peculiar snap and richness to the taste.

Try La Touraine today. Your grocer has it. Get the free booklet on coffee-making mentioned elsewhere in this advertisement. Then you, too, will serve the perfect coffee.

Do not accept La Touraine unless it is in the La Touraine package.

HIGH SCHOOL NEWS NOTES

Wednesday afternoon the Webster-Hayne Debating Club held a trial debate at the high school. The question debated was: "Resolved: That Japanese immigration should be accorded the same treatment as extended to citizens of European countries."

About one hundred students were in attendance at the discussion which was very good. The negative was awarded the decision 2 to 1 by the judges.

The negative was upheld by Edmund Drake, Edward Conway and David Weisburger. The affirmative was sustained by Donald Schroeder, John Tremper and Joseph Forman.

Thursday morning's assembly was attended by two addresses by students. Thomas Clearwater and Elizabeth Burroughs gave interesting talks on Roosevelt and his life.

Friday evening the high school gymnasium was the scene of a lively and enthusiastic party. The athletic association gave the annual social and dance to the members of the association. There was an entertainment in the auditorium. The committee on arrangements had the good luck to secure Eddie Clark from New York, a famous juggler, who thoroughly delighted his audience with his clever tricks.

Joe Lorraine, the famous bandleader, who was in France entertaining the soldiers, was the other performer. Joe certainly can play his band and tell funny stories. He was here at the Y. M. C. A. some time ago and made such a good impression that the committee decided he'd be a good one to get to entertain the students.

For a short time before and after the entertainment in the auditorium the students enjoyed dancing in the gymnasium. Balle's trio of musicians furnished the music for the dancing. Bott was at the piano with Carey on the "fiddle."

There was a very good attendance showing that there is a large membership in the Kingston High School Athletic Association.

Everyone departed at an early hour, having had a real jolly evening and many declared that the social was better than ever.

Workers Refuse to Accept Employers' Ultimatum Calling for Piece Work, Reduced Wages and Right to "Hire and Fire."

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, Dec. 7.—Peace or war in the clothing industry of New York hinged today on whether the clothing manufacturers would put into force their ultimatum for piece work, reduction in wages and re-establishment of the right to "hire and fire," which has been rejected by the unionized employees.

War was expected although during the next several days, negotiations which are being sought by the representatives of 65,000 amalgamated clothing workers, may delay the open breach.

The employers have the upper hand. But 10,000 of the 65,000 workers have employment, owing to the fact, employers say, they have no order for spring suits. They further contend they will be unable to operate in competition with other clothes making centers if suggested changes in the working agreement are not made.

The workers, half of whom assembled in mass meetings, voted rejection of the employers ultimatum, gave their delegates power to negotiate and pledged "in the event that the employers should force a struggle upon us" to put forth "all effort to bring this struggle to a successful conclusion."

Sidney Stillman, union workers' president, was to carry the workers' reply to the manufacturers today. The manufacturers previously had decided to put their ultimatum into effect, whether accepted by workers or not, feeling that with the lack of employment they could well risk such a step. However, union leaders said they did not expect employers to force a lockout immediately. Many of the 10,000 workers still employed are on part time.

Miss Alice Carsath, of the Chicago Hairdressing Academy here, exhibits the hair dress for 1921. It is the coiffure a la naked ear lobe and it is said the model blushed prettily when her nude ear was revealed.

The KITCHEN CABINET

Under favorable conditions, a rapidly growing demand for certain food-making materials, in preparation to the total food supply, then will the adults of the family—children.

"The golden-brown and glossy of bread is infinitely richer in flavor than the crust within."

DAILY FOOD.

With the cool autumn days we need more substantial food to supply heat.

Fried foods may now be eaten in moderation. The following is a most dainty way of serving potatoes:

Potato Puffs.—Beat three eggs, without separating the whites and yolks, until very light; gradually beat in two cupsful of mashed potato, one cupful of flour, sifted with two teaspoonfuls of baking powder and one teaspoonful of salt. Drop by teaspoonfuls into hot fat; let cook to a golden brown, turning often; drain on soft paper and serve with or without meat or fish.

Meat Cherry Turnovers.—Cut rounds, about six inches in diameter, of rich pastry. Chop together one cupful of cranberries and half a cupful of raisins, seeded; mix one cupful of sugar with two tablespoonfuls of flour and one-quarter of a teaspoonful of salt; pour half a cupful of boiling water over the fruit and when again boiling stir in the dry ingredients; add a teaspoonful of butter and let it cook until thick and boiling. Let cool a little, then place a large tablespoonful of the mixture on one side of each round of paste; brush the edges with cold water, cut two or three slits in each round for the steam to escape and press the edges closely. Brush over with cold water, dredge with granulated sugar and let bake 25 minutes.

Croquette Soup.—Scald three cupfuls of milk with half an onion and one cupful of cornstarch (that is, fresh corn pulp, prepared by scoring the kernels and pressing out the centers); stir in one-quarter of a cupful of flour, mixed to a smooth batter with half a cupful of milk; and stir until the mixture thickens; cover and cook 20 minutes and strain. Cook sliced ripe tomatoes until the water is evaporated, then press through a fine sieve. When ready to serve the soup stir one cupful of the hot tomato puree into the milk mixture and add a teaspoonful of salt and half a teaspoonful of paprika.

Bells Worn by Priests.
Innumerable and interesting are the traditions surrounding bells. Bells, or substitutes therefor, have ever played an important part in religious ceremonies. In the books of Exodus and Ecclesiastes, the sound of the high priest's golden bells, so that "their sound might be heard whenever he goeth in or cometh out of the sanctuary." Their use in the certain church extends even to this day, bells being rung as they were of old on the fringe of priestly garments.

Miss Adrian Hayer
Secretary
Tammany Club

Mrs. Muriel
MacSwiney

Little Adrian Hayer dressed in the uniform of a South Crosser, lately called at the White House, is well known. With some Red Cross Christmas stamps, Secretary Joe Tammany, during the past year, presented Adrian and purchased the president's goods.

Thousands of people cheerfully gave the Mrs. Muriel MacSwiney, who was granted Mrs. Muriel MacSwiney upon her arrival in New York, on board the steamship Celtic. At the event was featured the Irish-born MacSwiney Band played the "Star-Spangled Banner" and "The Stars of Erin," and the crowd cheered as loudly that the words scarcely could be heard. The above picture of Mrs. MacSwiney was made at the time.

BECKETT ESTATE TO SUE IN N. Y.

only intention was to take care of their own hide.

"I am glad this gentleman has been down the gutter. I have tried to treat these gentlemen kindly, but now I feel it is not necessary to deal with them in any other manner than I would deal with other counsel anywhere. I shall be glad to cross swords with this gentleman either in this tribunal or any other. Whether having presented the bill to this tribunal, they can now withdraw it and take it to another tribunal presents a grave question of law."

Judge Clearwater called attention to the testimony of Mr. Harwood, one of the executors, that a stipulation had been made with Judge Beckett that final determination of his bill for services should be made in the surrogate's court, and if the surrogate determined he had been overpaid, he would return the excess payment to the estate.

"As to his statement that he will withdraw this bill and go to another tribunal with it, I defy him; as to his application for adjournment, I oppose it. The law does not permit the hearing of this claim in any other forum. If this gentleman thinks he will intimidate me, he is mistaken."

Judge Beckett was on his feet during most of Judge Clearwater's speech, and as soon as Judge Clearwater finished Judge Beckett announced he could not allow the remark to go unchallenged that the executors had looked out for themselves and not for the estate. They came in possession of an estate that had debts everywhere, overdue notes in many banks and naturally under these circumstances they could not proceed to pay legacies. If there was to be criticism, it should be directed to the legacies, to Mrs. Smith, and finally to the surrogate, but he desired to say that it was due largely to the sound judgment of Surrogate Gill that the preservation of the estate was due. If one large man had been called, the estate would have been ended and there would have been no meeting to discuss distribution of assets.

A new phase of the case was suggested by Mr. Connelly, who said that the account of the executors showed two items to which objection had been made. One of these items was the Beckett bill. If the Beckett executors wanted to sue the executors at common law, they could bring an action, but the executors having reported the Beckett bill, the Beckett executors could not withdraw it.

On behalf of the executors, Mr. Ballantine said the account showed payments to Judge Beckett, but they had been passed on in the previous accountings, and no payment to him was subject to review now. The bill was not reported as one of the executors' expenses for which they asked an allowance, but only for the information of the court.

"If the executors don't ask for an allowance for this bill," said Mr. Connelly, promptly, "there is nothing to prevent the closing of the account at once."

"If the executors had not been in doubt about the legality of this bill, they would have paid it," said Judge Clearwater. "But they had doubt, and referred it to His Honor, and now they tacitly agree with Judge Beckett's executors to its withdrawal and a trial in New York city instead of in Ulster county. Such practice may go in a Manhattan police court, but they don't go here."

"I don't tacitly agree to that, as Judge Clearwater charges," said Judge Beckett with some asperity. "I want that bill determined here, in this court, by this surrogate."

"Judge Clearwater puts up a man of straw and then proceeds to knock him down," exclaimed Mr. Wintner. "In this obfuscation of words the real nub is lost to sight. 'Bill rendered to an executor by an attorney is a personal bill, for which the executor is personally liable. We presented this bill to the executors as individuals. They simply state in their account that it has been presented and is unpaid. Judge Beckett's estate was not cited here; Mr. Mulligan came of his own free will. There has been no rejection of the bill, which is not against the estate."

"If there is no bill here," said Mr. Connelly, "what is to prevent the account being closed at once. There can be no reason for holding back $10,000 to pay it, and that much can be added to the amount to be distributed among the legatees."

"When we find so much opposition," said Mr. Wintner, "we will not submit this bill in such an informal manner."

"Then there is nothing to prevent you from saying 'goodbye' and withdrawing," suggested Judge Clearwater.

Mr. Wintner announced the withdrawal of the petition filed by Judge Beckett's executors three weeks ago, and gathering his papers, hat and overcoat, left the room.

"If he is not here, his astral self is here," announced Judge Clearwater, "but now having withdrawn his papers, he can take himself away as quickly as he wishes, so that his astral self can associate with disembodied spirits elsewhere."

After Mr. Wintner's withdrawal, there was desultory discussion in regard to distribution of the bonds, and it was agreed that Surrogate Gill should appoint an appraiser to appraise the bonds. The matter was adjourned to December 30, to receive the appraiser's report.

King Rama of Siam

King Rama of Siam is the first of his line to renounce the right to a harem, according to a cablegram received in Boston by a youthful member of the Siamese nobility who is attending school there. The cable states that King Rama, who is forty years old, has chosen the young man's sister to be his queen. When he ascended the throne in 1911, King Rama denounced the polygamous custom in his country. His father was reputed to have had three hundred wives.

Paint Brush's Many Uses.

Nothing is better to take dust down the stairs than a good paint brush. It removes the dust from the corner niche of each step, brushes between the stair railings of moldings in a way no cloth can possibly do. Indeed a medium size paint brush of about four inches width has many uses in the house.

"Every girl in Chicago has deformed feet." When this startling statement was made by the International Academy of Podiatry Research, Miss Violet Woods patterned into the International clinic and challenged the medics to "find anything wrong with mine." Off came shoes and stockings, and the challenged medics began taking stock. Then followed a whispered consultation with the following verdict: Miss Woods was suffering from "hallux valgus," which means that her toes are so cramped from tight shoes that within two years bunion might appear. The photo shows Dr. Henry Crane, president of the academy, examining Miss Woods's toes.

MATTERS BEFORE SURROGATE GILL

A hearing was had before Surrogate Gill in the surrogate's court today in the estate of William T. Day, which came up on the filing of a supplemental report by County Treasurer Lounsbury as appraiser under the taxable transfer act. Dr. Day was a resident of Elizabeth, N. J., and at the time of his death owned a one-half interest in a summer camp of 1,420 acres in the town of Rochester, Ulster county. His will was admitted to probate in New Jersey and ancillary letters testamentary were issued by Surrogate Gill to Frederick K. Day of Elizabeth, N. J., a brother of the decedent, who was named executor in the will. On the appraisal of the estate before County Treasurer Lounsbury in May of this year, the personal property was stated to consist of an interest in the furnishings of the summer camp, valued at $250; the one-half interest in the real estate was valued at $6,000, and the debts, commissions, expenses of administration, etc., amounted to $300, leaving a net estate of $4,950.

Mr. Day, the executor, states in an affidavit that by inadvertence there was omitted from the list of personal property certain stocks belonging to the estate which were in the state of New Jersey but were issued by corporations organized under the laws of New York state. The largest blocks of stocks were those of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company and the General Electric Company, the appraised value of which is $36,226.88. Surrogate Gill granted a decree assessing and fixing the inheritance tax on the various legacies, amounting to $1,084.32. Joseph W. and Percy V. D. Gott of Goshen appeared for the executor; Andrew J. Cook appeared for the state comptroller.

A hearing was had in the matter of the judicial settlement of the account of Lawrence Fleckenstein and Adam Rosenberg as executors of the estate of Thomas J. Bamberg of the town of Wawarsing and a decree passing and approving the account was granted by Surrogate Gill. The amount in the hands of the executors for distribution is $6,100.91. Cleon E. Murray appeared for the executors.

A hearing was had in the matter of the judicial settlement of the account of John B. Adams, Sr., as executor of the estate of Emeline Adams of the town of Saugerties and a decree passing and approving the account was granted. Judge Betts appeared for the executor.

FARM POULTRY

SUCCESS IN RAISING SQUABS

Healthy, Vigorous, Properly Mated Birds Are Essential—Keep Flocks and Flocks Apart.

Begin with healthy, vigorous, properly mated breeders. Good quality foundation stock is very essential to success.

Select and keep only prolific breeders which are also good feeders.

Feed a variety of good-quality hard grains, including peas or beans. Use small whole corn rather than cracked corn.

Provide for the pigeons a pen which is dry, well ventilated, and can be kept free from rats and mice. Two nests should be allowed for each pair of breeders.

Keep clean, fresh, protected drinking water before the pigeons and provide a separate unprotected pan of water for bathing.

Market the squabs just as soon as they are feathered under the wings and about the time they are able to get out of their nests, say poultry specialists in the United States department of agriculture.

GEESSE UTILIZE WASTE GRAIN

Grazing Geese Take Up Most of Their Food From Ordinary Grasses of the Pastures

Geese touch flanks with chickens in utilizing waste grain about the stables and feeding pens. In a larger measure than chickens or any other kind of poultry, they are grazing stock, taking their living in large part from the ordinary wastes of the pastures. When the facts are taken into consideration that the demand for geese is strong, steady, and extended over practically the whole year, not confined to certain holiday seasons, and that their value as egg producers is considerable, the importance of a few geese on a general farm becomes apparent.

Geese, in common with ducks, are utilizers of forms of food confined to ponds and streams, but they are in that particular excellent by ducks. On farms where ponds or streams are available ducks will convert into meat and eggs great quantities of water insects and various aquatic forms that would not be utilized by any other kind of poultry. Ducks, while they consume much grass and other green stuff, are more partial to animal feeds and are very energetic in patrolling the branches, creeks and ponds as sources of food supply, say poultry specialists in the United States department of agriculture. Where conditions are favorable they will provide for their own food needs in a measure that will make them highly profitable.

LAYING HENS LATE MOLTERS

General Purpose Breeds Lay and Molt at Same Time, Slowing Down on Egg Production.

The hen with a natural tendency to lay usually postpones the molt until her production is finished regardless of the time she started. This applies more particularly to the egg breeds, as the general purpose or meat breeds sometimes lay and molt at the same time. In such cases the feathers are dropped and replaced slowly and the egg production also slows down but may not entirely suspend.

MAKEUP OF POULTRY MASH

Among Ingredients Are Corn, Alfalfa, Barley and Oats—Charcoal Adds Digestion.

Hens love mash. Corn, ground feed, such as cornmeal, corn chop, corn and cob meal, gluten meal, ground barley, cottonseed meal, blood meal and gluten meal and alfalfa meal are used in the mash. Sometimes charcoal is added to guard against digestive troubles.

FEED FOR GROWING CHICKENS

When About Eight Weeks Old Give Supply of Cracked Corn and Other Good Grains.

As soon as the chickens will eat the whole wheat, cracked corn, and other grains—usually in about eight weeks—the small-stalked feed can be discontinued. It is better to the chicks feed over with whole wheat or better still with whole wheat and cracked corn.

Don't Be Discouraged.

"No one has yet been successful in raising an actual chicken," states a poultry expert. It is a pity that one who has a few chickens should be discouraged by the fact that one has not yet been successful in raising a chicken. —Scientific American.

LEGION AND LEGION QUESTION

Position of National Body, Adopted at Cleveland Meeting, Made Clear in Bulletin.

A clear and well-defined exposition of the official attitude of the American Legion toward organized labor is contained in a bulletin sent out by national headquarters of the Legion in Indianapolis, setting forth the statement on the question issued by Past National Commander D'Wier, which was adopted by the national convention at the Legion's platform in industrial difficulties. The statement follows:

"The attitude of the Legion toward organized labor is the same as its attitude toward all groups of American citizens who are interested in a square deal for all in the maintenance of law and order, and the protection of the institutions handed down to us by our forefathers. In any controversy between capital and labor, the interest of the American Legion is confined to that of the maintenance of law and order, and without taking part on either side, in case a situation should arise where life and property are endangered, it is the duty of members of the Legion to perform their full duty as citizens, according to their own conscience and understanding.

"In such a contingency it is the Legion's duty to stand in the maintenance of law and order by acting as an individual and offering his services to the duly-constituted authorities for the maintenance of law and order. There is nothing to prevent the individual member of the Legion as an individual from taking either side in such a controversy but the Legion, as an organization will not do so."

KEEPS EYE ON LEGION MONEY

Robert H. Tyndall Is Reappointed National Treasurer by the National Executive Committee.

The handling of the finances of the American Legion will continue to be directed by Robert H. Tyndall, national treasurer, who was reappointed to the position by the national executive committee. Mr. Tyndall is a native of Indianapolis, and during the war served as colonel of the One Hundred and Fifteenth Field Artillery, Forty-second ("Rainbow") division. He was in command of the regiment throughout the war and was with the army of occupation in Germany until April, 1917.

Previous to his service in the World war Mr. Tyndall had long been interested in military affairs. He enlisted in Battery A of the Indiana National Guard in October, 1907. The battery was mustered into the Twenty-seventh Indiana Volunteer Battery on May 10, 1908, becoming a part of the expeditionary forces in Porto Rico during August and September of that year. In 1909 he enlisted in the reorganized Indiana National Guard and served as corporal, sergeant, lieutenant, and captain of Battery A until 1913, when he was promoted to major of the First Battalion, Indiana Field Artillery. He served on the Mexican border from July, 1916 to January, 1917, and received the rank of colonel in April, 1917.

ASKS FOR MILITARY ESCORTS

Philadelphia County Committee Appeals to President Wilson to Provide Firing Squads.

Following advice from the adjutant general of the army to the effect that it is impracticable for the War department, without a special appropriation for transportation expenses, to provide military escorts for the burial at Philadelphia of soldier dead whose bodies are being returned from overseas, the Philadelphia county committee of the Legion has appealed to President Wilson to provide at least two firing squads for this purpose from Camp Dix or through the Frankford arsenal, at Philadelphia.

"The American Legion representative," the letter reads, "were not satisfied with the excuse offered by the adjutant general of the army for refusing to assist in meeting this emergency. The bodies of soldier dead of the A. E. F. are being returned to Philadelphia daily, and so many as five requests a day are being received by the American Legion. The Legion, through its representatives in the county organization, took the position that it cannot avoid its responsibility to honor these men who gave their lives for their country.

"The United States army is now recruited to a strength of 300,000. It was the unanimous opinion among the Legion representatives of the 70 parts in this country, that as commander in chief of the United States army, you might consider it a privilege to assign to Philadelphia 25 men who might serve as military escorts, thus insuring a permanent patriotic duty."

The letter was signed by Emma C. Blumrich, secretary of the committee.

Legionnaires as Guard of Honor. Impressive ceremonies marked the funeral of Robert P. Ward, late commander of the Department of Pennsylvania, whose body was laid to rest in the National cemetery at Arlington, Va.

Returned Their Own Warburden.

It may be possible to get a better idea of the life of a soldier in the trenches than by getting a book or a picture. A soldier's life is a life of constant struggle and sacrifice. —Scientific American.

HOW

HOUSEWIVES MAY MAKE THEIR WORK MORE ATTRACTIVE.—How to make household work more attractive is no useless problem that it is delightful to hear that the operation of washing clothes is "a kind of Greek dance." So, at least a lady who is used to Greek dancing declares. The same author says that the essence is "rhythmic movements" for every household duty and that her labor is surprisingly lightened. Thus energy can be conserved in the lifting of a kettle if one stoops with one's whole body instead of simply leaning forward a little. The theory is plausible enough to deserve a careful working out. It is one of the principles of modern education that study must be made play for the child. How much more should work become one sweet song for the housewife! Many might find the combination of washboard and Greek dance perplexing. Probably the ordinary worker might resent the interference with her "ways," no matter how much help she might derive from it. But we have one resource unknown to the ancient in canned music. Put in the record and turn the crank, and the rhythmic movement is easy. In this untrodden field of domestic art—or shall we say science—the first adventurers will have to walk warily. Only long and careful experiment can determine the exact kind of music for each particular task. It would not do to employ jazz if slow waltz time were required. If a bed were made up to jazz the sheets would probably not be tucked in properly at the bottom. A little comic opera music might suit a hasty luncheon, whereas for a deliberate and formal dinner an adagio from a symphony might blend more harmoniously with the occasion. Since the domestic problem is one of the greatest the modern woman has to face, it is obviously of the highest importance that the connection between the family wash and the Greek dance be carefully investigated and further researches undertaken. —New York Tribune.

BEE'S PRODUCTION OF HONEY

How the Transition From Nectar to the Highly Digestible Compound Is Accomplished.

When a bee arrives in the hive with a load of honey, she searches until she finds a cell to her liking and then enters the cell with feet upward. Her mandibles touch the cell where the load is to be deposited. Then the mouth and mandibles open, and a drop of nectar appears. With the mandibles constantly in motion while quite likely some secretion is added to the nectar, the head is moved from side to side and the nectar spread over the upper cell wall. When this honey is first stored it is quite thin, but later the bees evaporate or "ripen" it until it contains less than 25 per cent of water. The work is done mostly at night, the bees standing on the combs with heads upward and then forcing a drop of nectar to the mouth and mandibles, where it gently pulsates for about ten minutes when it is swallowed and another drop appears. This work continues sometimes for nearly half the night. Anyone entering the apiary at this time will note the pleasant odor of the new honey and will also enjoy the droning sound of the millions at work ripening the honey.

How to Resilver Mirrors.

Select a sheet of tinfoil of the required size and pour over it three drops of quicksilver for each square foot of foil. Rub the foil with a piece of buckram until it becomes brilliant. Place a sheet of paper over the foil so as to completely cover it. Then lay a weight on the foil, using a slab of marble or smooth block of wood. Increase the weight so that the foil will be pressed tightly to the glass. Allow to stand four or five hours to set. If properly done the foil will adhere closely to the glass. Usually, however, it is cheaper and more satisfactory to buy a new mirror than to try resilvering an old one.

New Cornsoda Yield Dye.

Of importance to the dye industry is the recent discovery that furfural, or furfuraldehyde—a dye base—can now be extracted, like caffeine, from the common cornsoda, and at a cost of only 15 cents a pound. This colorless, oily liquid has previously been obtained only in the laboratory, and at something like $17 a pound. In consequence of this announcement the dyed colored cotton will take on considerable commercial value. In the hands of the chemists it will yield dye of a vivid green, in addition to the rare yellow and blue dye—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

New Bathing Gown Design Laid.

Almost from infancy bathing gowns have been a staple of domestic life. This is not peculiar to bathing gowns, but a common feature is that of the bathing gown, which is usually made of light material, and is usually worn over a nightgown, and is usually worn over a nightgown, and is usually worn over a nightgown.

Showering Without a Showerbath.

When a New Orleans woman tells in love with a man who made a piece of string to his shower, or if he has no shower, to his mother or mother of his lady relatives. Then the lady who receives the string tells the favored man that the particular woman is in love with him. No showering follows, however, for it is considered beneath a New Orleans woman's dignity to wash in a shower bath. If the man wishes to wash like the old lady, he covers her shower, and they divide whether to wash or drop the idea. —New York Tribune.

CHRISTMAS CLUB CHECKS ACCEPTED

A section of a giant redwood tree from California now stands on the grounds of the Department of Agriculture in Washington. It is thirty feet in diameter and is topped off with a miniature house. What a good looking bungalow it would make.

Burns Were Big Hat.

A Scottish antiquarian has been making inquiries of a London hatter "with a large clientele of men of the intellectual classes," as to the size of hat that must have been worn by Robert Burns, whose skull measurement was 22 1/2 inches. It seems that 3 1/2 is the size for so considerable a "lectical" hatter. Sir Walter Scott's hat was a full 6 1/2, his head circumference being 20 1/2 inches. A Dundee hatter says no Dundee man among his customers takes Burns' size in hats nowadays. From hats like these said Scotland's grandeur sprang.

They Never Drink.

One of the strongest of biologic facts is that there are no desert regions anywhere that never drink. Conspicuous among them are the prairie dogs. These little mammals, apparently, do not in all their lives drink a drop of water. With certain other rodents, such as pocket mice and kangaroo rats, it is the same way. Remarkable as the physical economy of these animals requires water, the latter usually must be separated in their bodies from the food, mostly seeds, on which they subsist.

Starlings Without a Counting.

When a New Orleans woman tells in love with a man who made a piece of string to his shower, or if he has no shower, to his mother or mother of his lady relatives. Then the lady who receives the string tells the favored man that the particular woman is in love with him. No showering follows, however, for it is considered beneath a New Orleans woman's dignity to wash in a shower bath. If the man wishes to wash like the old lady, he covers her shower, and they divide whether to wash or drop the idea. —New York Tribune.

FIND MAKES SCIENTISTS GLAD

Discoveries Recently Made on Scottish Island Are Declared to Settle an Old Dispute.

Discoveries of great interest to archaeologists have been made on the island of Riga, in Loch Sunart, Argyshire, Scotland, where a band of scientists has been searching in huge shell mounds.

The director of the party is of the opinion that the discoveries made in this rocky and uninhabited island have gone far to settle the dispute among archaeologists as to whether a break intervened in the human occupation of the British Isles between Palaeolithic and Neolithic periods. He says: "Vestiges of human activity extremely like the 'Azilian' as the intermediate period is called in France, have now been recognized in Scotland in the island of Oransay, adjoining Colonsay, and the name of Oransay has been given to this period in Scotland."

The Riga excavations disclosed remains of the Oransay man's dwelling places, with his food, refuse and rude tools, made of flint, Jasper, quartz and granite; bone and bone, and many large implements made from the antlers of the red deer.

Windows of Life.

Every call and challenge of life has its appropriate window. Some are of the stained-glass variety, heavy leaded, but permitting no vision. The window itself is the thing beautiful and the beholder is not expected to see beyond it. Even the sunlight is changed as it passes through the glass. Such windows are usually stationary and are the end in themselves. The clouds and sunshine influence what is within but nothing without can enter. Other windows are of the prism variety. They give rainbow effects but reveal nothing as it really is. Such windows bewitch and enslave, but never reveal the outer life or permit the inner self to flow out into the great throbbing, pulsating world. These windows—dark and beautiful, but we need the crystal glass to help us get the far vision and glow upon the beams of life.—Orin.

Boys Swims Are Useful.

A pair of swims, to replace others which were damaged during the war, has been presented by the Lord Chamberlain to the Royal Naval Society of London. These are not merely for ornamental purposes, says the London Daily Chronicle, but are to be employed on useful work in distributing the water works which have accumulated in the society's lake in their condition at Regent's park. The absence of the swims resulted in the lake being overgrown with water weeds, brought there in was followed, by a heavy which particularly visited the beach for bathing purposes.

God's Power of Vision.

A bird's power of vision is, on the average, about 100 times greater than man's. Birds have been known to see a worm on freshly plowed ground at a distance of 300 feet.

Too improbable. Grandpa told Charles this bedtime story reports Two Bits: "There was once a little boy who went upstairs with his mamma. She undressed him and washed his hands and face and neck and ears and combed his hair and put his nightie on him, and he smiled happily, and said his prayers and jumped into bed just as a good boy should. And she kissed him good night and turned out the light and went downstairs, and the good little boy went right to sleep and dreamed fine dreams all night. Now, isn't that a dandy story?" "Yes," answered Charles, "but I don't believe a word of it."

A Sporting Jury.

Jake Jackson, a native of Georgia, was summoned to court on an assault charge. The state brought into court the weapons used—a huge pole, a dagger, a pair of shears, a saw and a gun. Jackson's counsel produced as the complainant's weapons an ax, a shovel, a scythe, a hoe and a pair of tongs. The jury was out only a short while and returned with this verdict: "Resolved, That we, the jury, would have given $5 to see the fight."—New York Central Magazine.

Think Before You Speak.

It is a good thing to say what you think, and to be truthful, but never forget to think what you say and to be thoughtful. A thing may be true, yet should not be said if it helps nobody and hurts somebody.

Dr. J. J. Stewart, eminent French specialist and surgeon, who gained fame during the war through his remarkable facial operations, arrived in New York recently. Dr. Stewart is here to consult with some of the foremost American surgeons on the possibilities of changing the nose to suit the wearer. He declares that by means of simple operative methods a woman can be made to look ten years younger. Working on the principle of the matter of a hat, can be removed by simple operations.

TRIANGLES LOST AT BEACON

Saturday night the Triangles went to Beacon, where they met defeat at the hands of the Trinity Five of that city. The score after playing an extra five minute period was 28-22.

The three-sided boys played a fast game, and kept close to their opponents throughout the game. In the last minute of play, "Slim" Murray dropped a field basket in from the center of the floor, tying the score. In the extra five minutes of play, the Beacon boys outshone the locals and won out by scoring three fields.

Robins upheld his record on scoring fouls, making good on ten out of twelve chances. He had the scorer putting up the foul points before he made them and as a rule, he made good.

The Triangles are a fast team of players and have only lost two games this season. Both games were lost by a close score. The Triangles and Trinity Five have each won a game and the rubber will be played sometime in the near future.

WELL EQUIPPED BROKER'S OFFICE

Peter H. Troy, the well known stock broker of Poughkeepsie, has opened a brokerage office in the large room formerly occupied as a cafe at the Eagle Hotel. The Kingston office is in charge of Elmer E. Eastmead, who has been appointed resident manager. Mr. Eastmead has been actively engaged in stock brokerage work for a number of years. Mr. Troy, who is himself a member of the New York Stock Exchange, is also connected with the brokerage firms of E. & C. Randolph of 111 Broadway, New York city, and Livingston & Company of 51 Exchange Place, New York, with both of which houses the Kingston office has direct wire connection.

The offices occupied by Mr. Troy in the Eagle Hotel are among the finest brokerage offices in the Hudson river valley. A mahogany quotation board has been erected and quotations are shown by printed cards. The customers' room has been handsomely furnished and the open fireplace gives the room an almost homelike appearance.

Both Mr. Troy and Mr. Eastmead are well known in Kingston and have many friends here.

Forestry Dinner Postponed.

In view of important forestry conferences planned for the two weeks prior to the Christmas holidays, and involving immediate action on a forest policy, the New York State Forestry Association has temporarily withdrawn from the field, and has postponed its forest dinner of December 15th at the Waldorf Astoria in New York.

RIVER HIGH AT ALBANY MONDAY

The waters of the Hudson at Albany Monday reached their highest mark for December since 1901. The river went over the docks, flooding Quay and Division streets and the land south of Rensselaer. At 2 o'clock in the afternoon the weather bureau gauge recorded thirteen feet following which the river subsided a few inches. The water at midnight was at the dock level and officials of the weather bureau predicted that colder weather would avert a serious flood.

High water was reported from all sections of the capital district Monday night at Amsterdam the Mohawk was steadily rising, being fed by melting snow from the Adirondacks and the recent heavy rains. The gauge at the federal dam at Troy Monday night recorded fifteen feet, one inch, a drop of five inches during the afternoon. The water at night was even with the docks at Troy. Cohoes reported that the Hudson and Mohawk were steadily rising for forty-eight hours.
